MAD HITZ FM

Discontinuation

Dear Listeners

Unfortunately, today is the day where I have to personally announce the discontinuation of Mad Hitz FM.

One of the main reasons for this cannot be disclosed, however, this reason has prevented the current license owned by Mad Hitz FM to no longer be validated. Due to our predicted income stats along with preparation to pay the next year of licensing, we are unable to afford to pay for a new license at this current stage.

Without a license, we are unable to broadcast, and until one could be restored, it would be very unlikely for us to continue.

I didn't want to have to announce this, nor publicise this letter, however, this is the only way forward for Mad Hitz FM.

Slowly, you will notice things slowly getting shut down, and soon Mad Hitz FM's online presence will be no more.

I would like to thank every single staff member who contributed to us at some point, and specifically thank the ones that stuck.

I would also like to apologise that some presenters may have not known that they were doing their last show, and that listeners were listening to the last seconds of broadcast on Mad Hitz FM.

Any questions, comments, concerns or queries can still be directed to our email, info@madhitzfm.co.uk, which will remain active until August 1st, 2021.

Additionally, if you wish to send us any messages, you can either Tweet us, @MadHitzFM, send us an email, or post a message in our Discord.

The future of Mad Hitz FM is unknown, as of now, however, it's not impossible to see it's return.

We wish everyone the best of luck in the future and hope that everyone continues to learn, grow and progress the same as Mad Hitz FM did, and the same as all our staff members have done, and will continue to do.

I hope to see everyone once again in the future.

Furthermore, in line with GDPR, DPA and other applicable laws, all personal data, including user accounts, applications, payment data, banned IPs, logs, interviews, have been deleted.

Kind Regards,
Zephyr B.

C.E.O of Mad Hitz FM.
